

MAIRA Reinbergs – paintings about light, beauty, color

I was born in Riga, Latvia. As a small girl I loved to dance and did piles and piles of drawings. Summers I spent in the country – at my grandfather's. There I was given total freedom to roam the meadows, fields of rye, the apple orchard, the river bank. Maybe this is why I became an artist – being so much by myself, immersed in the beauty of nature.

My paintings are explorations of color and line. I strive to capture their illusiveness, subtleties and mysteries. Often music influences my work; lines and color variations express movement, continuity. I want my paintings to express beauty, harmony, tranquility.

Maira has received numerous awards – in 2017 she was the Grand Prize Winner from the Society of Latvian Artists in Canada.

"If there is purpose to her work, it is to wash away with a stroke of her brush all that is ugly, cacophonous and strident, and all that would anger the soul. She succeeds admirably."
